

WisdomTree Launches International Real Estate Fund

--ETF Offers Diversified Exposure to the Dividend Stream of Non-U.S. Real Estate Market -

NEW YORK – (BUSINESS WIRE) – June 5, 2007 – WisdomTree Investments, Inc. (Pink Sheets: WSDT - News) today announced that The WisdomTree Trust will launch a new dividend-weighted ETF today on the American Stock Exchange.

The WisdomTree International Real Estate Fund (AMEX: DRW), tracks an index that is comprised of approximately 224 dividend paying companies in 19 developed market countries across Europe, Asia and Far East whose primary business is operating or developing real estate. This is WisdomTree's 25th fund focused on non-U.S. equity markets.

The new ETF will have an expense ratio of .58% and will trade under the ticker DRW. The Kellogg Group will act as the specialist for the product.

“Real estate has been a strong performing asset class over the last few years and we are pleased to introduce a unique investment vehicle focused exclusively on diversifying investors across international borders.” said Bruce Lavine, President & COO of WisdomTree. “We think an investment in international real estate can provide significant diversification benefits as the asset class has a relatively low correlation with domestic real estate and offers access to fast growing real estate sectors around the world.”

Jonathan Steinberg, CEO of WisdomTree, added, “This new ETF is consistent with WisdomTree's focus on fundamental weighting, which is designed to offer investors the potential for long-term performance, with lower volatility than comparable international real estate market cap-weighted ETFs.”
