

WisdomTree Emerging Currency Strategy Fund (CEW)

In July 2018, the Fund’s Strategy Committee conducted its annual review of the currency exposures for the WisdomTree Emerging Currency Strategy Fund (CEW). After assessing the liquidity of emerging market currencies, the committee decided to maintain its current constituent currencies for the coming year.

Going forward, the Fund will retain its target positions in the following currencies: Brazilian real, Chilean peso, Chinese yuan, Colombian peso, Indian rupee, Indonesian rupiah, Malaysian ringgit, Mexican peso, Philippine peso, Polish zloty, Russian ruble, South African rand, South Korean won, Taiwanese dollar, Thai baht, and Turkish lira.

The Committee believes the current constituents should continue to provide a comprehensive and liquid exposure to emerging market currencies. Despite the ongoing uncertainty in a few emerging economies, sufficient liquidity has been present in each of the Fund’s projected exposures. Additionally, select emerging European currencies were again excluded given their tight correlation to the more liquid Polish zloty.

Although the Fund invests in very short-term, investment-grade instruments, the Fund is not a “money market fund”, and it is not an objective of the Fund to maintain a constant share price, as would be the case for typical money market funds.

Investors should consider the investment objective, risks, charges and expenses of the Fund carefully before investing. To obtain a prospectus containing this and other important information, please call 866.909.9473 or visit WisdomTree.com. Investors should read the prospectus carefully before investing.

There are risks associated with investing, including possible loss of principal. Foreign investing involves special risks, such as risk of loss from currency fluctuation or political or economic uncertainty. The Fund focuses its investments in specific regions or countries, thereby increasing the impact of events and developments associated with the region or country which can adversely affect performance. Investments in emerging or frontier markets are generally less liquid and less efficient than investments in developed markets and are subject to additional risks, such as risks of adverse governmental regulation and intervention or political developments.

Investments in currency involve additional special risks, such as credit risk and interest rate fluctuations. Derivative investments can be volatile and these investments may be less liquid than other securities, and more sensitive to the effect of varied economic conditions. As this Fund can have a high concentration in some issuers the Fund can be adversely impacted by changes affecting those issuers.

Unlike typical exchange-traded funds, there are no indexes that the Fund attempts to track or replicate. Thus, the ability of the Fund to achieve its objectives will depend on the effectiveness of the portfolio manager. Please read the Fund's prospectus for specific details regarding the Fund's risk profile.
