CHANGES IN FUNDAMENTAL FACTORS

For investment-grade corporates, we use free cash flow over debt service as a measure of solvency, total debt over total assets as a measure of leverage, and return on invested capital as a measure of profitability.

Over the past three months, we generally saw a minor increase in cash flows across most sectors. Notably, cash flows in the Communications and Consumer Discretionary sectors increased the most relative to their peers, while Consumer Staples and Health Care deteriorated. Most sectors saw relatively mute changes in leverage relative to a quarter ago. Leverage in the Consumer Staples and Industrials sectors increased modestly. A meaningful deleveraging of corporate balance sheets within the Public Universe has yet to occur. Overall profitability changes were positive. Profitability metrics in the Communications, Consumer Discretionary and Energy sectors increased. Overall, fundamentals for Solvency and Profitability improved modestly compared to May 2018 while Leverage remains elevated.

At each rebalance, we eliminate the bottom 20% of companies in each sector with the lowest fundamental factor scores. As a result, WFCIG and WFCIGS select companies in each sector that have better cash flows, employ lower leverage, and are more profitable relative to the benchmark.

UNIVERSE BREAKDOWN SHOWCASING REBALANCE PROCESS

In the following panels we show the indexing process for WFCIG. To review, we start with a broad investment-grade corporate universe with minimum size and years-to-maturity constraints, and calculate the combined factor scores for public companies based on fundamental factors. For each broad sector, we cut the bottom 20% of the companies with the lowest factor scores, and then tilt toward those with the most favorable risk-adjusted income characteristics.

Glossary:

Cash Flow: a measure of how much cash a business generates after taking into account all the necessary expenses, including net capital expenditures.

Duration is a measure of the sensitivity of the price (the value of principal) of a fixed income investment to a change in interest rates. Effective duration is a calculation used to approximate the actual, modified duration of a callable bond. It takes into account that future interest rate changes will affect the expected cash flows for a callable bond.

Credit Quality is the underlying credit worthiness of a bond, reflecting its risk of default. Credit quality is typically represented by the credit ratings of a bond that are assigned by rating agencies such as Moody's or Standard & Poor's.

Yield to worst: The rate of return generated assuming a bond is redeemed by the issuer on the least desirable date for the investor.

Investment Grade: A rating given to a municipal or corporate bond. It is a relatively favorable rating by either Moody's or Standard & Poor's indicating a higher chance an issuer performs interest and principal obligations as promised by the terms of the debt issuance.

Liquidity: The degree to which an asset or security can be bought or sold in the market without affecting the asset's price. Liquidity is characterized by a high level of trading activity. Assets that can be easily bought or sold are known as liquid assets.

Fundamentals: Attributes related to a company's actual operations and production as opposed to changes in share price.

Rebalance: An index is created by applying a certain set of selection and weighting rules at a certain frequency. WisdomTree rebalances, or re-applies its rules based selection and weighting process on an annual basis.

Yield: The income return on an investment. Refers to the interest or dividends received from a security that is typically expressed annually as a percentage of the market or face value.

There are risks associated with investing, including possible loss of principal. Fixed income investments are subject to interest rate risk; their value will normally decline as interest rates rise. Fixed income investments are also subject to credit risk, the risk that the issuer of a bond will fail to pay interest and principal in a timely manner or that negative perceptions of the issuer's ability to make such payments will cause the price of that bond to decline. While the Fund attempts to limit credit and counterparty exposure, the value of an investment in the Fund may change quickly and without warning in response to issuer or counterparty defaults and changes in the credit ratings of the Fund's portfolio investments. Please read the Fund's prospectus for specific details regarding the Fund's risk profile.
